

djabugay.org.au

CURRENT CONTENT

About Us

Djabugay Aboriginal Corporations is made up of six entities which operate on behalf, and for the betterment of the Djabugay speaking people of the Kuranda region. The group, made up of the Djabuganydji, Bulwanydji, Nyagali, Yirrganydji and Gulunydji are proud First Nations people who's homelands cover the Barron River and Rainforest regions of Far North Queensland.

The Djabugay peoples' traditional lands include the Barron Gorge National Park in Queensland's world heritage listed Wet Tropics. The Barron Gorge National Park is an internationally renowned natural icon, and the Barron Falls (Din Din) an all powerful symbol of the significance of the area to the Traditional Owners. For the Djabugay people, a Native Title determination in 2004 recognised their connection to country as Traditional Owners, and gave an opportunity to have a say on the management of the park. The Corporation recently launched the Djabugay Bulmba Bama Plan which aims to guide the development of a joint management model towards social, cultural and economic benefits for the Djabugay people.

PROPOSED CONTENT

About Us

Djabugay Aboriginal Corporations is operate on behalf, and for the betterment of the Djabugay people of the Kuranda region. Djabugay people are participating with Yirrgay and Buluwai neighbouring tribes as part of the Cairns Regional Claim Group. Djabugay are proud First Nations people whose homelands are Rainforest regions of Far North Queensland bordering the Barron River on the south.

The Djabugay peoples' traditional lands include the Barron Gorge National Park in Queensland's world heritage listed Wet Tropics. The Barron Gorge National Park is an internationally renowned natural icon, and the Barron Falls (Din Din) an all powerful symbol of the significance of the area to the Traditional Owners. For the Djabugay people, a Native Title determination in 2004 recognised their connection to country as Traditional Owners, and gave an opportunity to have a say on the management of the park. The Corporation recently launched the Djabugay Bulmba Bama Plan which aims to guide the development of a joint management model towards social, cultural and economic benefits for the Djabugay people.
